Pertinent Paragraphs

Los Gatos drys Tuesday started a movement for the recall of Sheriff Lyle, alleging failure on the part of Mr. Lyle to enforce the Volstead and Wright acts in Santa Clara County.

One hundred people gathered for a dinner and discussion of the booze problem, and to get Sheriff Lyle and his colleagues in the pan. In view of the fact that Santa Clara county is said to be the wettest county in the state, it would seem that the determination of the Los Gatos people to dry it up a bit is quite laudable. How far they will get with their proceedings against this moist John Law remains to be seen.

Jack Dempsey and Estelle Taylor are appearing on Broadway, co-stars in a production entitled "The Big Fight." A review says it is a tiresome two hours, with the exception of the final three minutes, when the Mauler steps out in his historic red trunks and slaughters the character "Battling Baker," played by Ralph Smith. If Jack is as bad on the legitimate stage as he is on the screen, you may well believe the above report.

This week at Stuthgart, Germany, smoke screens against aerial attacks were tested and found highly successful. The United States war department may or may not be busy perfecting a similar protection. We hope in the affirmative, for the next war will undoubtedly be carried on mainly in the air and the knowledge of some kind of protection, particularly at coast positions would be comforting, to say the least. The unprepared will be speedily annihilated.

During a campaign speech at Spencer, Ia., Senator Curtis, Republican nominee for the vice presidency, was interrupted by a local wise-cracker, who wanted to know "about the McNary-Haugen Bill." Curtis replied: "If the Republicans are elected, we will have a bill passed—a good bill—and it will be signed by Herbert Hoover." Later the nuisance asked Curtis a question on taxes and received this reply: "I just told you about that, but you are too dumb to understand it," which seems to be the failing among the enemies of the Hoover-Curtis combine, who "do not chose" to understand.

A decidedly extinct dog cluttered up the downtown disrict for 24 hours this week, after having been exterminated by the local law. A courageous citizen at a late hour dragged the carcass some distance from town. Provision sould be made for the disposal of defunct animals.

California Prohibitionists set a precedent at their convention at Sacramento Tuesday, when they aligned themselves with the Republican party, forsaking their national candidate in favor of Herbert Hoover in the belief that the latter, elected to office, would be of greater value to their cause than would their would their own candidate. Heretofore Prohibitionists have stuck tenaciously to their selection, even in the face of certain and overwhelming defeat. Their action will add from 50,000 to 100,000 votes to the Hoover roll call in California and gives us a fairly good idea of the decision being reached by thinking people of the better element in this state.

Frequently we read items in the daily press, dealing with the "mixing" of babes at various hospitals. Provision should be made for thei r proper identification—and we suggest branding them with a prearranged mark. Possibly a bit rough, but it would save much confusion.

Successful test flight of a Stevson-Deroiter monoplane, equipped with a Diesel engine, by the Packard Motor Company, marks an important step in the progress of aviation. This ideal motor burns crude oil without the aid of a spark, doing away with gasoline and electricty, a combination which forms a dangerous fire hazard. In addition to this feature the motor has fewer moving parts and can deliver 25 per cent more mileage with the weight in oil fuel as compared with gasoline.

LEWIS H. FISHER

Lewis H. Fisher was appointed chief engineer of the division of appointments, civil service commission, to succeed Dr. Thomas P. Chapman, who died suddenly. Mr. Fisher will serve as assistant secretary of the commission. He is a graduate of the National University School of Law.

EXPERIMENT IN RE-SURFACING ROADS

An experiment is being worked out on Winchester road to ascertain the cost and advisability of resurfacing and paving with oil macadam. One quarter mile is being done by the 4th district just south of Rincon avenue. The grade is being lowered and by using most of the old bed a big saving will be made. Work of rolling the rock was begun yesterday and with the sub-grade prepared a surface of oil macadam will be put on. The detours thru Rincon and Budd avenue was being messed up by the road crew of the 5th district hauling gravel for surfacing that portion of Budd avenue. Ralph Gardner with a grader made short shrift of the high spots in that section.

Work of paving south Central and Railroad avenue was begun this week and the work is steadily progressing.

EARLY SERVICE FOR CAMBELL RURALS

Authority has been received from the postal department at Washington for a change in the hours of the Campbell rural carrier. Hereafter Carrier Yeager will leave the post office at nine o'clock or as soon thereafter as the mails will permit.

This will enable patrons to receive their mail somewhat earlier, as since the extension of the route and the rapid increase in the number of boxes being served, it has been impossible to maintain the old schedule at all times.

UNION SCHOOLS OPEN

Campbell union schools opened Monday with a full attendance, which is still on the increase.. Thursday morning the high school totalled around the 300 mark and the grammar school about 735, with more registering each day in both places.

WOMAN'S CLUB OPENS SEASON

The Country Woman's Club entered upon its year's work Monday afternoon with one of the most enthusiastic meetings in its history.

Mrs. D. Cramer, the president outlined the aims of the year, emphasizing the desire for an increased membership, which started very auspiciously with the presentation of several names to be voted upon.

She mentioned that this was the Skidoo year, being the twenty-third year of the Club's organization, and it still has three of its nine charter members, Mesdames E. J. Price, L. F. Shaw and E. R. Smith.

An announcement that was received with much satisfaction was that the last hundred dollars of the note at the bank had been paid, so that no more interest would accrue, although there has been money taken from the other funds which must be replaced.

The program for the afternoon was in charge of Mrs. J. C. Ainsley, Mrs. R. J. Archibald and Mrs. L. T. Lenox, who had cooperated with the membership committee in having a large number of guests present to enjoy the afternoon with the members.

Mrs. Ralph Hyde sang most effectively "Come to the Fair" by Sasthope Martin, and "When the Roses Bloom" by Louise Reichardt."

Other interesting numbers were furnished by the students of Mrs. Mazurova George, a Russian gypsy dance by Lovey Allen of Los Gatos, who showed decided dramatic possibilities, a French Gavotte by Genevieve Bonnet and Bertha Van Dingin of San Jose, and a Russian dance and a Russian song by Bertha Van Dingen, all of which were very effectively interpreted .Mrs. George also explained briefly the motif of Russian dancing, which is self-expression. Mrs. George Robson at the piano accompanied all the songs and dances.

Tea, punch and wafers were were served by the committee, with the assistance of several other members during the intermission.

Part of the afternoon was spent in renewing social contacts interrupted by the summer recess, and in welcoming guests.

If the initial meeting is an augury for the year, prospects are glowing for a prosperous and successful season.

LODGE CELEBRATES 77TH ANNIVERSARY

Ada Rebekah Lodge celebrated its 77th birthday anniversary Tuesday evening when about ninety members and guests assembled to enjoy the program that had been arranged by the committee. William Coupland and Mr. and Mrs. Phillip La Barbera.

Vocal selections by Mrs. Julius Bachman and Mr. and Mrs. La Barbera, accompanied by Mrs. Henry Gullick were much appreciated as were readings by Mrs. Latham of Los Gatos and Miss Annie Schultie of Campbell.

Harry Silver and Mr. Coupland talked interestingly of the ideals and history of the Rebekah order.

A happy coincidence was the day, being also the 5th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Silver and they were presented with a beautiful basket of flowers. Light refreshments were served at the close of the program. Past president of Rebekah Assembly, Alta Orr, and Dist. Deputy Pres. Bessie Bettinger were welcome guests.

The chapter is planning a card party for Oct. 6, with Mrs. Anna Bachman, chairman.

JENKINS ADDRESSES LOCAL KIWANIANS

Kiwanis Club celebrated annual Constitution Week Tuesday evening with a full house of members and ladies, as the occasion had been planned for a ladies' night.

President Merrill introduced the speaker, Attorney D. T. Jenkins of San Jose, who gave a very interesting and instructive talk on the foundation and making of our national constitution described by that noble Englishman, William E. Gladstone, as the greatest document by the mind of man. He very graphicaly pointed out the necessity of supporting this law of the land to its full, just so long as it was the law, laying particular stress on the 18th amendment.

D. H. Cramer read an article on Kiwanis Ideals of Citizenship, urging the patriotic use of the ballot, which is one of the objectives for this year.

H. C. Smith explained the voting contest sponsored by California Development Association and which Campbell, thru its Chamber of Commerce, has entered.

T. A. Cutting will be chairman and Rev. Howard McConnell of San Jose will be the speaker at the next session. Remember it's a noon meeting.

STATE WARNS ALL BICYCLE RIDERS

The attention of bicycle riders was today called by the Division of Motor Vehicles to the fact they are required to observe the law on the highways in the same manner as other vehicular traffic.

The warning was given because of numerous reports of accidents involving bicycles in which it was determined that the riders had not observed the rules of the road.

Bicycles, it was stated, are expected to keep well to the right side of the road the same as motor vehicles. Riders must also give signals when about to turn.

Traffic officers have been instructed to make a particular attempt toward enforcing the law requiring bicycles travelling at night to display lights front and rear.

TESTS ASSURE GOOD SERVICE

Long distance lines which enable Campbell subscribers to talk to all points in the United States are tested every day in the year, says D. A. Manning, local manager for the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Between five and six o'clock in the morning, before the average man has begun to think about the problems of the day, and while the lines are least busy, each district office makes a test of the long distance lines within its territory.

The object of this test is to determine if the main lines or wires are ready for the day's work and everything is in perfect order for the heavy load that will soon come humming along.

When the general plant manager of the American Telegraph and Telephone Company reaches his office at headquarters in New York City he is informed at once of the condition of the main long distance arteries all over the country.

THANK'S TO M'KINNON

Supervisor McKinnon is doing his stuff and he is the recipient of much merited praise. This is the first year of his term that he has had any money to work with. Campbell has not enjoyed too much road work and is now coming into her own. Thank's, Joe.

SUE TIE

Sue Tie, sixty-five years old, a Chinese steward on the Sylph, the secretary of the navy's yacht, has been retired after 30 years in the United States navy. He was presented with an official letter of congratulation from Acting Secretary of the Navy T. Douglas Robinson. He retires with a life pension of $100 per month.

C. OF C. COMPETING IN VOTE CONTEST

Campbell Chamber of Commerce held its postponed meeting Monday evening.

The publicity committee presented its report for booster envelopes submitting copy. The committee was thanked for its good work and solicitors were asked to canvass the town for quantity wanted.

There are several hundred booster folders for circulation and our townspeople are urged to call at the Press office to secure some to send to their friends in other states.

President Smith has been asked by the Good Citizenship division of California Development Association to enter Campbell in the voting contest, to be conducted by the Association. A cup is to be given the town with the best percentage of voters using the franchise Nov. 6. He appointed as committeemen for the three Campbell precincts, G. I. Robson 1, C. H. Whitman 2, Dr. W. I. Merrill 3. These men will appoint five or more aids in their respective precincts to call on the voters and urge them to vote. The movement is non-partisan in the cause of good citizenship, and everyone is urged to use his good services to help this worthy movement and help Campbell win the cup.

Henry Campbell reported that he had secured consent of all but three property holders on south Second street to lay curb and gutter preparatory to paving the street.

S. N. Hedegard stated that talk was current of a new road running north from Hamilton avenue to connect with Downing avenue. With such a road Campbell community would eliminate two railroad crossings between here and San Jose. The Chamber members voiced their appreciation of the good road work being done by Supervisor McKinnon in this vicinity.

News of Interest to All

Plans of the Richfield Oil Company for an improvement program in the Sacramento and Stockton districts, which will involve an expenditure of between $1,125,000 and $1,500,000, were disclosed recently at Sacramento by S. M. Fuller, vice president and general manager of the oil company.

Plans to make the San Francisco Bay area one of the government's leading aviation centers were revealed at San Francisco recently by W. Frank James, chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee. Two huge projects, each totaling approximately half a million dollars in preliminary work, were outlined by Congressman James and will be submitted to Congress at its next session.

Forest fires, 70 per cent man-made, may bar the national forests of California to the public. This step toward conservation was regretfully hinted by Major Robert Y. Stuart, head of the United States Forest Service, who arrived in California last week on a tour of inspection. He declared that a material increase in fire hazard would put up the bars against tourists.

The most disastrous fire in the history of Oroville, which threatened for a time the entire business section of the city, swept through a business block last week, leaving a toll of $100,000 damage before being extinguished. The flames were brought under control after they had reduced six buildings to smoldering embers and had defied the entire fire department of the city for more than three hours.

Loss by fire at the Kennedy mine, Jackson, is placed at $250,000 Two hundred and fifty men are thrown out of employment. Reports are heard at Jackson concerning incendiarism, as the fire broke out in two places in the log pile. One hundred and twenty men underground escaped through the Argonaut shaft, the bulkhead between the mines having been removed.

If the $13,000,000 naval shore construction bill which will be presented to Congress in December by Representative Britten success—fully passes, a new floating drydock will be added to the navy's equipage in California. Four hundred thousand dollars will be asked for the construction of a floating dock which can be used for destroyers and submarines in the California areas of naval operations. This dock would be designed in such a manner that it could be used anywhere along the California coast.

Distribution of the $27,728.28 fund raised by KFWB radio station at Los Angeles for the capture of William Edward Hickman, now awaiting hang ing at San Quentin prison for the murder of Marion Parker, was made last week. Sixty per cent of the fund was awarded to Tom Gurdane and C. L. Lieuallen, the Pendleton, Ore., officers who actually captured Hickman. The remaining 40 per cent was distributed among twelve persons who were found instrumental in identifying the former Kansas City youth.

Oil field operations reported to State Oil and Gas Supervisor R. D. Bush during the week ended September 8 show 37 new wells started, compared with 40 during the previous week. California's total estimated daily crude oil production increased 6,800 barrels during the week ended September 8, figures released by the American Petroleum Institute show. The total estimated daily average crude oil production for the State during the week of the report was 635,800 barrels compared with 629,000 barrels for the week ended September 1.

State Railroad Commission last week refused to allow the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation to cut its rates for street lighting to a figure below cost of production of such current by the municipality owned by Los Angeles Bureau of Light and Power. Denying the corporation's petition for a 25 per cent cut in its street lighting rates, the commission issued an order for a 15 per cent reduction. The order explained that a 25 per cent cut would have brought the tariff below the cost of production of the bureau.

In line of duty, State Game Warden George Thompson halted a hunter near Yuba City last week and demanded a license. In response, the hunter levelled his shotgun at Thompson and pumped three charges into his head, according to authorities, killing him instantly. Thompson's body, an unfired revolver clasped in one hand, was found beside his automobile a half hour later. Following footprints which led from the scene, Sheriff Ben Manford of Sutter county entered a nearby ranch house and arrested Charles Hoganboom, 42, son of the ranch owner. Hogaboom, said to be demented was lodged in the detention ward of the local hospital. He confessed, according to authorities, that he shot Thompson when the warden demanded his hunting license.

HOLDUP GETS $15

At 7:45 Tuesday evening Fred Mau of the local Shell service sation found himself gazing down the yawning maw of a pistol of large calibre. The pistol was held in the left hand of a hard young lad of about 19 summers. Said lad demanded and received cash—fifteen dollars' worth—and departed toward Los Gatos in a Chevrolet automobile. The law arrived about thirty minutes after receiving Fred's s. o. s. The bandit, of course, was not apprehended.

Quotations from Hall of Fame

"It would be a profound disaster if people came to think that it was not their duty to associate in the administration of the law unless they were officials or lawyers. They should all be partners in helping to have the law observed and administered."

—Sir Thomas Inskip

Santa Clara County Wins

Santa Clara County carried off sixty-two prizes at the state fair this month. Our fruits swept the field, winning six sweepstakes, not mentioning first, second and third prizes. Santa Clara County's fruits are unexcelled, and they should be exhibited more than they are. How many people know that we produce the best prunes in the world? Not many, and it is only by this sort of advertising that our prunes can be put to the front. Our state fair has become a large and interesting institution. It was better this year than ever before, and it will be better still next year. California produces such an abundance of fruits, cereals, vegetables, flowers, minerals and woods, that there is no reason why our state fair should take second place to any.

Gas Tax For Schools

Mexico will levy a tax on gasoline to build some new schools, which she seems to need more than good roads. When the common people of Mexico become educated, then their government will be on a solid footing, and not until then. Revolutions and assassinations are incubated in ignorance, but with a man of the vision of Calles in power, Mexico is sure to emerge from her present state, though it will take time. After we have built all the good roads in California we need, it might be expedient and wise to divert some of our gasoline tax to educational work.

School For Dad and Ma

The National Education Association is proposing that the parents as well as their children make out report cards. In other words, this society would have father and mother go to school, as well as Johnny and sister. Father and mother often have parenthood thrust upon them, with hardly an idea how to meet the obligation; and perhaps this is why the country is filling with children who are frivolous and inefficient. And so the N. E. A. would ask parents such questions as:

"Does the home maintain an atmosphere of mutual love and respect?

"Is there a sufficient income to maintain a reasonable standard of well-being for all members of the family?

"Is the family housed in a way that takes care of the needs of each of its members?

"Is there a proper amount of wholesome food, attractively served to meet individual needs?

"Are the duties and responsibilities of the family fairly divided among its members, according to their strength?

We train our boys and girls to be lawyers, doctors, nurses, teachers and preachers, but never think of instructing them in the science of rearing a family, which is as complex and important as any. Parents need to learn the art of being patient, wise and self-reliant, and if instructed along these lines we dare say there would be fewer anxious hours when their children go out into the world to make their careers.

A popular outdoor pastime is about to be revived—sneaking away to the football games on Saturday afternoon.

MR. MAXON'S LETTER

sides to its life. In the first place, it is in the tropics. Last night we had a lively shower, of which no one took any notice at all.

From my second story veranda at the back of my hotel, the lordly cocoanut palms rear their beautiful fans high into the air and the birds are singing in the rose-trellises below. Some plant with large leaves like a banana tree is also growing there, but I do not know its name.

The smell of all this luxurious greenness is what gets you first. It is everywhere in the better parts of town and in the country.

I couldn't say that the tropical fragrance was "everywhere," as I started to, because memories of the walk I took yesterday through Chinatown are with me yet. I do not know what the relative numbers are of Chinese, Hawaiians, Japanese, Americans and Portugese, but I would say roughly that they are about in that order. The city is the most cosmopolitan one I have ever seen, and intermarriages of all sorts are common. Living so close to one another, there is a minimum of race prejudice, and when you get on the street car some little Japanese woman with her feet wrapped in white cloth to above her ankles, sandals and kimona on, may come and sit down beside you with no show of self conciousness at all. It is very refreshing to find such a degree of mutual tolerance.

Oh, yes! I was telling about Chinatown. I almost forgot it for this letter, but no one who has walked through it will ever forget it. They have bazaars or fruit-vegetable-meat markets all together, and the combined reek, something between spoiled fish and rotten eggs, can be smelled for a block. I do not mean that all Chinatown smells like fish! But here, at least, the Japanese are much cleaner and neater. They are very quick too, and make good waiters and waitresses. Some might use the phrase: "they have their wits about them." That helps in a waiter, too, as one sometimes can't help thinking.

Most of the barber shops are owned by Japanese and the barbers are pretty Japanese lassies in Kimonos or American dress.

I'll pass over the prevailing temperature, which is around 80 degrees. Perhaps, tho, it is the cause for the tremendous popularity of the beaches with newcomers. I've been in four times at Waikiki in the three days here, once by moonlight for about two hours. It is supposed to be the most famous beach in the world, I guess, and the evening was as perfect as I ever hope to have. You can swim out three hundred yards and be able to touch bottom between swells. Water and air are the same temperature and one can swim and swim without becoming cold or exhausted.

The natives and some whites, or "Lowlies," as they are here called, ride surf boards with amazing skill. They lie flat on the board and paddle out, using their arms as tho swimming the breast stroke, and when they have gotten way out they turn towards shore and paddle like sixty to get on the crest of the swell. The theory seems to be that they stand on the back part of the board and the wave rises behind them, lifting the board and shoving it forward. Anyway, they go faster and faster, sometimes dancing jigs or doing handstands on the boards. They told me that it took different individuals different lengths of time to learn. The Prince of Wales tried not long ago and made a miserable failure of the whole affair. It must have been terribly embarrassing for his Princeship. I decided not to try myself.

I visited the Hawaiian Pineapple Company's plant the other day, the largest cannery in the world, situated out of town in a new big building of several stories. Those poor "pines" get rough teratment, when they once get into the machines. Whisk! and off goes the shell, which is squeezed for juice and then used as bran. Click, and the rest is cored and sliced.

In the busy season they employ 3500 workers, two shifts, with the machines going 22 hours a day. A good many of their modern labor and time-saving machines have come from the workers themselves, as they are constantly encouraged to make suggestions for improvements. The Chinese guide explained to me: "Maybe if good idea, pay ten dollahs; not velly good, five dollahs; put 'em all togethah bye an' bye new machine."

There are many other things of interest, but I'm afraid this will make too long a colmun now, and besides, it's bad policy to tell all you know—at least at once.

Sincerely,
—Yale Maxon

MRS EFFIE BIRNBAUM

Mrs. Effie Birnbaum was called to her heavenly home last Friday evening, after a long painful illness.

While realizing fully their own loss, her family and friends can only be glad that the spirit has left its earthly home for that other world, where pain and suffering are no more.

Mrs. Birnbaum, who was a native of Oregon, had lived in Campbell for eleven years, their home being on McCoy Ave.

She was an earnest member of the Congregational church and a faithful worker in its various activities as long as her health permitted and had endeared herself to its members by her beautiful character.

She is survived by her husband, J. C. Birnbaum, a son, C. W. Birnbaum of San Francisco, Mrs. H. W. Walton of Campbell, two grandchildren and two sisters, Mrs N.Zey of Oakland and Mrs. F. H. Blackford of Washington.

Funeral services were conducted Monday by Rev. J. H. Bennett from the funeral parlors of the San Jose Undertaking Co., and interment was at Oak Hill cemetery.

KIWANIS TO URGE THAT VOTERS ACT

All Kiwanis clubs in the United States will work to secure a record vote in November, according to a statement made today by Wilby G. Hyde of Chillicothe, Ohio, chairman of the service organization's committee on public affairs for the United States.

"Vote as you please, but vote" is the message from Kiwanians to the general public, states Mr. Hyde.

"Kiwanis clubs will vigorously attack the national voting lethargy this year. All members will assist in every way at the coming election, for the organization has for years been active in all communities in stimulating the public mind to action."

Within the next few weeks all clubs will be active in the vote study of their communities. Election laws, general registration and other information will be given the public at first.

"We will not stop here, however, for we are working for effectiveness," emphasizes Mr. Hyde. "Every club will get detailed information about its voting districts, the number of voters in each precinct, the location of the polls, and the voting totals of the last general election. Armed portance of exercising the right of with these facts, Kiwanians will stress to their committees the imfranchise. It is even planned in some cities to have telephone operators call every home and office on election day as a reminder to vote."
